

Leather pouch for fire axe

1011041

Protective pouch for a small fire axe made of high quality black leather. The case simultaneously protects the axe from possible damage during interventions and prevents the possibility of injury to the firefighter while carrying it.

The pouch has a clip that enables the axe to be attached to the carabiner and worn on a firefighter's harness or fire suit. A small fire ax is a very useful tool during interventions and can be used to perform less demanding tasks, such as removing and breaking through various obstacles (glass, doors...).
